The sound of the bell, Robby's, bridge in Mr. Hakes' room, Oreos, pep (?) fests, the candy-stand mob, Yannigans, the ballroom, June 10th . . . Times to remember; times to forget.

Route 66, a time of events, people and purpose. More than just a direction, Route 66 symbolizes a particular phase of our life which we go through only once. This is Route 66, a unique time in our lives for the unique way we are.

MRS. LUCILLE FITZSIMMONS introduces new senior pre-college English students to their textbooks, while their guides look on.

CANDY CURTIS TRIES her luck at opening her locker for the first time with the assistance of her mother.

New students oriented to MHS

INCOMING sophomores and new transfer students had the chance to get acquainted with MHS and to meet their teachers during the annual Orientation Open House held on Sept. 3. After a mass introductory meeting in the auditorium, the students and their parents went through the schedules of classes for the coming year. They were given 10 minutes in each class, during which time the teachers explained the course. Junior and senior guides were posted in the halls ready to give assistance in finding teachers and their respective rooms. After the "day" was completed, refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

LYNN EDDY DIRECTS Duane Manthe and his parents to the right room.

Sophs experiment with English 3200

HUCKLEBERRY Finn, research papers, and book discussions — these are just a few of the obstacles that each MHS student faces in his study of English during his three years of the subject. He can choose from pre-college, standard or practical, depending upon his purpose.

A new approach to grammar was used for the first time in some of the sophomore classes. The program, called English 3200, allows the pupil to go at his own rate and to concentrate on his own weak spots. Along with their study of literature of the Medieval Age, a few senior sections sang Old English Ballads to the accompaniment of a guitar.

Learning how to write concisely and to be critical students of news media was the aim of journalism classes. The students also studied the newspaper and yearbook in order to prepare for positions on the school publication staffs.

ENGLISH TEACHER JOYCE Larson pauses to answer a student's question.

JOURNALISM STUDENTS JERRY Gronau, Jeanne Warner and Barb Smith pose with U.S. Senator Walter Mondale during his press conference at the Inn Towne motel.

Art develops creative talents

ART students at Mankato high keep up with an active schedule through the school year. They are called on to use their talents in various fields, such as drawing posters, working on Junior Class, One-Act, and Senior Class plays and making signs.

Art I is a study of design, exposing students to all medias of art. Art II and Art III specialize in certain fields of study. Art II is a survey of sculpture, ceramics and jewelry. Art III is a study of modern art, some sculpture and oils and advertising. Also, Art III students, for the first time, took on a major project of each person's choosing.

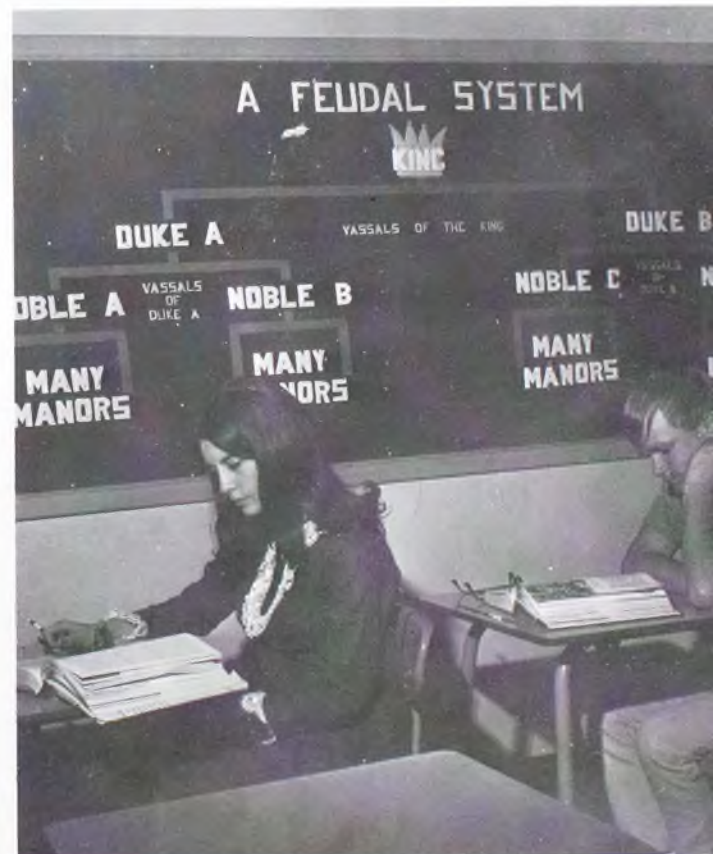

JUNIOR MARY JOVAAG makes a piece of jewelry in art class.

WHILE LOOKING OVER her shoulder, Peggy Bollenbacher carefully steers her car backwards.

HISTORY classes took advantage of visual aids in addition to their regular textbooks. New films and film strips were added to the teaching program already in use.

MHS employs eight teachers to teach its students about the history of the United States and the world. Seniors study in depth the United States government and social problems. Juniors study World History, and sophomores, the history of the United States.

CAROL ADAMS AND Turk Anderson take advantage of a study period in Karl Adolphson's World History class.

stimulates thought

WITH more emphasis placed on experimentation, the Advanced Biology course expanded into a two-class reality this year. A new textbook, the second of the BSCS series, extended the areas of study covered in the first year. Biology introduced its students to the science of life and to some of the fundamental laboratory procedures.

While chemistry students struggled to memorize symbols and equations, Chem Study classes were faced with the challenge of open-book tests. These tests, designed to produce thought instead of facts, proved to be hard to get used to for many students.

In physics the trend was toward the PSSC course as two more classes of it were added to the curriculum. The basis of the course was experiments involving parallax, triangulation and other basic methods.

In the math field, two types of courses are offered at MHS. MSG provides the student with the modern approach, while the standard maths present the traditional approach.

THE MATH TEST must have been hard by the look on Ray Rapp's face as he hands in his paper to James Hanneman.

DISCUSSIONS PLAY A big part in the Humanities classes. Here Dan Akerson expresses his views on Plato's Dialogues, while Lee Spelbrink and Meredith Nelson listen.

Fine Arts enrich

A select group of seniors in five classes studied the Humanities, which asks and tries to answer basic questions and challenges students to think up their own answers.

For the first time, speech students gave talks on closed circuit television. This enabled them to better observe themselves.

Latin I students basically learned grammar, while Latin II students read about Caesar and studied mythology. Cicero's Letters and Orations and Ovid's Metamorphose were read by third year students. In German classes, students made and brought German foods such as the pastry, Stollen.

Two newspapers, Bonjour and Chez Nous, which had records to go along with them, were used for the first time in French classes. First and second year Spanish students concentrated on vocabulary and grammar, while third year students discovered the literature of Spanish-speaking countries.

FOR HER HUMANITIES project, Kris Berg serves a Greek banquet to her class. Every student must do one project during the year.

SPEECH STUDENT JAN Greeley concentrates on giving a good talk.

TYPING classes used a speed and accuracy approach. They have a new textbook called Twentieth Century Typewriting. It is an experiment in directions. Instead of receiving them from the teacher, the directions are in the book. General clerical and secretarial office classes had a week of data processing added to the courses. Shorthand II had a new textbook which has the revised form of Gregg shorthand. Bookkeeping teaches principles, careful thinking, neatness, budgeting and business.

Interested in MHS and vocational students, the guidance department is always ready and willing to counsel them. Seniors especially need help concerning college and future plans. Test scores and scholarships come through the guidance office.

In order to help teachers carry out their programs, the library now has 10,500 volumes and 280 phonograph records. Twelve students volunteered their services as assistant librarians during their study hall each day.

AIMING toward the goal of making every student more physically fit, the physical education department offered a variety of sports and activities. In the girls' classes more emphasis was put on dual sports, such as tennis and badminton, in addition to the regular team sports. Whereas in other years the classes traveled to the bowling alleys for their bowling unit, this year special arrangements were made so that students could bowl in the gymnasium.

Stressing consumer buying and home management, the home economics classes were aided in their studies by field trips to furniture, grocery and yard good stores.

The second year of required health classes saw all of the sophomores taking the subject. With much of the course concerning mental health, a select group of students, under the direction of Mrs. Harriet Thornby, toured the State Hospital at St. Peter.

Vocational school awaits move

AMONG plans for curriculum changes are those for building a new area Vocational school. At the present time there are 412 high school students enrolled in day-time courses. The vocational department is also in charge of Home Economics and Occupational Relations.

A citizen's advisory committee, appointed by the board of education, has recommended that an enlarged school be built. It would be a Vocational-Technology school for post high school students. If and when the old building is relieved of the crowded situation it is now faced with, many changes will take place. The industrial arts and other similar departments will enlarge. Also, the high school Audio-Visual department, library work room, and possibly some administrative offices would be moved to the old vocational building.

Starting this year, vocational students were offered an industrial arts course which met only one hour per day. There were also two more classes of power mechanics.

bursts its seams

BACKACHES became a common complaint this year as assemblies and lyceums were held in the gymnasium instead of the auditorium. For the first time students had to take certain routes down to the gym to avoid congestion in the halls.

Enrollment increased from 1,198 to 1,260 this year. All three classes surpassed the 400 mark, while the senior class had the greatest increase with about 50 transfer students. The school district is considering building a second high school.

With classrooms used every hour of the day, teachers were chased out of their classrooms during free periods.

Luverne Bjerke replaced C. J. Arnold as Director of Audio-Visual education for the system.

William Nigg, as superintendent of District 77 public schools, saw the completion of Hoover elementary school.

ALTHOUGH only five faculty members were replaced this year, a total of 10 were added to the staff. Gordon Fuller was added to the counseling staff, and Norman Gullickson became Audio-Visual coordinator.

The library staff was increased by Mrs. Ruth Maxey. Waldo Asp took over Martin Wiltgen's position as humanities instructor. Mrs. Virginia Bird, Miss Joyce Larson and Ken Rockvam were added to the English department. Ray Stephens took a year's leave of absence, while Duane Mettler took his place as driver education instructor. Two biology teachers were hired, Mrs. Joan Christensen and Richard Rohloff. THREE MHS teachers took a break from teaching this year to further their education in each of their respective fields. Mike Naylor, biology instructor, attended State College of Iowa in Cedar Falls on a National Science foundation grant. Receiving a John Hay Fellowship to the University of Chicago was humanities teacher Martin Wiltgen. Also gone for the year was Ray Stephens, driver education instructor. C. J. MANY MHS teachers have attended notable schools. Some of them include Drake university, Eastman School of Music, Middlebury college, Northwestern university, and William and Mary college. Norman Gullickson attended the University of Alaska, and he also taught in Alaska. Approximately 75 per cent of the teachers have taken either undergraduate or graduate courses at Mankato State college.

The Southwest MEA convention elected Karl Aaberg, Chem Study teacher, as its president for 1966 and 1967. This year's rally was held in Mankato. At the final general assembly the MHS choir gave a concert.

In their spare time, faculty members take up varied hobbies and interests. Mrs. Lucille FitzSimmons directs a group of her nieces and nephews which is called the "Fitzsextet." Hobbies include horseback riding, sportscars, rose plants, and going to the Twins and Vikings games. Among the very favorites are fishing, politics, good conversation and most of all giving tests!

Homecoming activities keep

EXCITEMENT mounted and studies were cast aside as everyone put in long hours striving to make Homecoming '65 the best ever.

On Thursday the halls filled with chaos as girls in C. P. jackets and boys with "greased-down" hair participated in Hobo day activities.

Tension was apparent among many students as they filed into the gymnasium on Friday to watch the coronation of their Homecoming Queen. The suspense was finally broken as John Adolphson, Yell club president, placed the crown on Mary Cumiskey's head. Mary and her escort, Marty Thompson, along with Kathy Wood, Betta Owens, Lynn Looney, and Darla Swenson, and their escorts, Norman Nitzkowski, Gary Date, Jay Bogen and Dan Johnson, reigned over the parade, game and dance.

SHOUTS were heard as Daisy Maes dragged their Li'l Abners into the YMCA gym for the Sadie Hawkin's dance, which was sponsored by the Y-Teens. It was the first of its kind to be held for MHS students.

Upon entering, everyone received a corncob pipe. The decorations consisted of haystacks and an outhouse, not to mention a still where Mountain Dew was served.

For those who were willing, Roger Franke, better known as Marryin' Sam, was on hand to perform a marriage ceremony complete with a license and ring.

Highlight of the evening was the selection of the boy and girl who looked most like Daisy Mae and Li'l Abner. Rose Christopherson and Bill Laraway were chosen to receive this "honor" from among 12 finalists at the dance.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL sponsored many after game dances which were held in the gym.

IN "THE ARTS" Karen Northenscold, Kathy Nelson and Sue Berg express extreme concern over their sons' occupations.

OVER 50 juniors participated in this year's Junior Class Play, "The Best of Broadway," which was under the direction of Mrs. Marion Powers and Kathy Kleinbeck.

The play, presented Nov. 11-13, consisted of 18 skits which were selections from various Broadway productions. The majority of these skits were humorous, such as "The Arts", while others like "Love's the Shortest Distance," were on a more serious side. Many of the skits contained singing and dancing.

The entire cast participated in "Let Me Walk Under Your Umbrella When it Rains," and in "The Audience" not only the entire cast, but also the stage hands took part.

"The Best of Broadway" was the largest production ever put on by a Junior Class at Mankato high.

UPON ENTERING THE dance, girls voted for their choice for Jack of Hearts from candidates Bob Hoffman, Bob Bigelow, Bill Laraway, Bruce Paradis, and Chip Ulrich, who were previously selected by the Y-Teens.

SHOUTS OF "Oreos!" "Fruit Loops!" and "Seniors!" could be heard throughout Snow Week as students competed in various activities to win points for their class. The point system was something new at MHS this year and incited much competition between the classes. Points were compiled by the judging of the snow sculpture, the number of tickets sold for the game, and the outcome of the snow races.

A dance in the gym on Saturday night started Snow Week off. On Tuesday night everyone gathered on the football field to support his team in the snow races. This was followed by a World Series basketball game in which faculty members competed against All-Star athletes. Talented students got their chance to perform in the hootenanny on Thursday. Eight senior boys dressed like girls stole the show as they competed in the Miss America contest.

The week came to a close on Friday morning when the final points were announced and Jenny Johnson and Dan Johnson, candidates from the senior class, were crowned.

Student Council initiates eight o'clock

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS Rosemary Lorentz, Brian Sugden, Linda Sorebo, Steve Lund and Dianne Gildemeister provided leadership and guidance for a successful council.

STARTING out with a new adviser, Gordon Fuller, and plenty of new ideas, the Mankato high school student council began another year with sophomore orientation. It was followed by traditions such as the charity tree, International Day and Snow Week. New activities introduced were noon-hour sock hops in the gym and live-band dances. A new system of final election of Snow Week king and queen candidates was introduced. Classes were given points for winning in snow races, snow sculptures and advanced ticket sales.

In addition to the one-hour-a-week meetings, 8 a.m. meetings were held every other Tuesday. A suggestion box was set up in the all-purpose room and the apple machine was faithfully visited. The supply shop was again located in the student council office.

The 1965-66 student council, consisting of 46 members, was led by Steve Lund, president; Linda Sorebo and Brian Sugden, co-vice presidents; Rosemary Lorentz, secretary; and Dianne Gildemeister, treasurer.

AUDUBON MEMBERS MEET at lunch-time to discuss future trips.

SCIENCE club kicked off its year's agenda with a pizza party in November. Other fun excursions included a toboggan and ice skating party in February and a camping trip in May.

Concerned with more educational goals, Science club members boarded buses on a January morning and took off for a tour of the Mayo clinic in Rochester.

Speakers were an important part of the club's effort to learn. At one meeting Dr. William Perendy, a noted podiatrist in Mankato, was guest. Also, a man from the Minnesota Academy of Science spoke to interested members about bio-physics.

Presiding over this year's Audubon society were Brad Nordgren, president; Robin Wright, vice-president; and Martha Kroon, secretary-treasurer, who were elected at a club-sponsored swimming party last June.

Advisers Hershel Siebrass and Richard Rohloff headed the year's activities which included everything from a skiing trip in mid-winter to a canoe trip last spring.

WHILE AT ONE of the meetings, Science club members take a human manikin apart to examine it more closely.

HI-Y OFFICERS: GLENN Arnesen, co-vice president; Norm Nitzkowski, treasurer; Larry Kudrle, co-vice president; Denny Kaus, Chapter president;

Brad Nordgren, secretary; Bill Hasegan, chaplain; John Ellis, All city Hi-Y president.

Over-nights provide fun, little sleep

HI-Y, sponsored by the YMCA, had three chapters at Mankato high. These groups functioned independently of each other, but were coordinated in their activities by the Hi-Y Council, which also handled all new memberships. Sleep-overs at the YMCA during October, January and March were open to all members. Participants played basketball, swam and rarely slept.

Chapters raised money by having bake sales and car washes. Service projects, hayrides, and a canoe trip planned for this summer helped reduce the balance. Presidents this year were Dick Carlstrom, Brad Nordgren and Denny Kaus.

KAREN STIER SELLS a victory balloon to Kathy Nelson at a football game. Balloons were released at kickoff.

'Friendship' chapters

Mankato high's nine Y-teens chapters were active in several areas. The groups met individually for monthly meetings to plan and carry out their own activities, but combined to give two girl-ask-boy dances: "Sadie Hawkins," held dogpatch style in November and "Jack-of-Hearts" in February. The groups also conducted Saturday morning play sessions for underprivileged children and helped with the snack bar at St. Joseph's hospital. To finance Y-teens, service projects members sold balloons at football games and food at wrestling meets.

Y-teens chapter meetings were always preceded by potluck suppers. The groups held bake sales at noon and earned money which they used for their own community projects and reducing the expenditures for their entertainment. Club members had fun participating in such diverse activities as a trip to the cities, a forum on boys' opinions of girls, horseback riding, tobogganing, and ice skating.

High news goes 'offset'

LINDA ENKE, KRIS Berg, Nancy Roth and Cheryl Nere work on their page assignments for the High News.

A big change was made in the publication of the High News this year. Previously, printing was done by rolling paper over an ink form filled with the type and engravings. This method is called letterpress. For the first time this year the paper was printed by the photo-offset process, based on the fact that water and oil don't mix.

Staff members worked in co-operation with Schuldt Printing company, which purchased a special camera to make offset possible. Staff members had to rearrange the previous year's schedule to fit the copy and paste-up deadlines for each issue.

To keep the student body up to date on school and world news was the main objective. An issue came out every two to three weeks and was filled with news, features, editorials, cartoons and action-packed pictures.

Special editions were put out at Homecoming and Christmas for every student. The last issue of the year was dedicated to the graduating seniors. This year's High News staff included Nancy Roth, editor-in-chief; Sandy Flugga, managing editor; Cheryl Nere, news editor; Karen Hartwell, editorial page editor; Linda Enke, feature editor; Dick Beerling, sports editor.

Candy wrappers, empty boxes clutter 205

Those harassed, groggy-eyed, candy-munching beings seen scurrying about the halls, especially during fourth hour, were actually only members of the yearbook staff. Pages of the book were sent to the publisher to meet four deadlines, which demanded continued effort and long hours. A supplement to the '66 annual edition of the Otaknam is put out in the summer.

As in other years, the staff sold candy every day at noon to decrease cost of the book. Students reciprocated by placing orders for over 1,100 Otaknams, breaking all sales records.

PAM THOMPSON TELECASTS a five-minute program of Snow Week events at the KEYC studio.

"OH, no! Is that what I really sound like?" This was one of the many reactions of Radio Workshop members as they heard their voices coming over the radio. One or two members taped programs of music, jokes and news on Tuesdays. On the following Thursday, the program was played over KYSM at 10:30 p.m. on Scarlet Downbeat. Special programs were prepared for holidays and Snow Week.

Five-minute programs were given over KEYC by members of TV workshop. The programs, held on Fridays at 3:30 were presented live. Members prepared their own presentations consisting of interviews and news items.

Thespians, Art Club breed creativity

THESPIANS club was formed to replace two previous organizations, the Drama and Stage clubs. Members, who must have earned 10 points by acting or working on lighting, make-up, or costumes, elected Mark Drum, president and Kathy Hickstein, vice-president. The club saw a play in Minneapolis.

The Art club, also newly-organized, voted Cliff Fisher, president; Marcia Anderson, vice-president; and Chris Berkness, secretary-treasurer. The group visited the art museum and was responsible for the paper tree and painted windows in the library at Christmas.

Students debate, speak for NFL honor

MEMBERS of Debate team this year had to contend with this statement—"Resolved: The federal government should adopt a program of compulsory arbitration in labor management disputes in basic industries." On most Saturdays one or more teams, consisting of two persons on the affirmative side and two on the negative side were sent out to local tournaments to debate this topic. In addition the Debate club played host at the Mankato Invitational in December. Then in early spring it traveled to Worthington to attend the Trojan Tournament. The elected secretary of Debate team was Sandy Paulsen.

Olives, grapes, dominate Latin meetings

THE Mankato High school Latin club is commonly known as the Junior Classical League, or JCL. This year the JCL members attended a state convention April 16 which was held in St. Louis Park. The club, which is part of a national organization, also plans to attend the August convention in Kentucky. Participants in JCL also traveled to Winona this spring for a week-end camp out and at the end of the year the Junior Classical League again held a great feast after which the pits and seeds were picked up by the dutiful slaves.

Junior Classical League officers for the year were: Robert Kehner and Diane Haroldson, co-consuls; Mark Balcerzak, praetor; Cynthia Allen, scribe; Jayne Thomas, quaester; and Pam Corlett, Bob Chesley and John Sexton; aediles.

IRO arouses international interests

THE International Relations Organization, commonly referred to simply as IRO, was proud to have two foreign students as members this year. The pair, Joelle Vialard, who came from France, and Jorge Merlinski, who is from Uruguay, gave the club's other members insight into how people of other countries live and what they are really like. John Adolphson, who spent last summer in the Philippines, also related his experiences for the enlightenment of the IRO group. The IRO club had a progressive dinner and held a potluck supper, which were both favored with dishes from afar. As a money raising project, the IRO sponsored candy sales throughout the year. The profits, which totalled more than $50, were sent to Radio Free Europe. Officers for the year's International Relations Organization were Marilyn McLean, president; Meredith Nelson, vice-president; Elaine Tosch, secretary; and Barb Smith, treasurer.

BUILDING muscles, co-ordination and poise were the main objectives for Dolphins and Orchesis this year. Meetings were held each week at which members exercised and worked on their individual and group numbers for the shows. In December, the Dolphins held a show entitled "Christmas Around The World" and in March staged a show with a "Holidays" theme. The Orchesis club gave performances of "All That Jazz" on February 22 and 23. Each club held tryouts in the spring and fall which were judged by the officers. Dolphin officers were co-presidents Kris Berg and Martha Kroon; secretary, Jane Carlstrom; and publicity chairman, Karen Northenscold. Orchesis leaders were Kathy Hickstein and Barb Thornby, co-presidents; Marilyn McLean, business manager; and Sandy Flugga, publicity chairman, all senior members.

THE Girls Recreation Association met every Thursday afternoon to exhaust its members with such activities as volleyball, bowling, basketball, badminton, tennis, archery, and softball. GRA officers Sue Mutch and Sandy Kelley, co-presidents; Pat Morrow, treasurer; Dorothy Hunter, publicity chairman; and Sally Jackson, secretary determined their objective for this year to be to have fun and compete at the same time. During the Christmas season the group sang carols at the Oaklawn Rest Home and the Mankato House, and also held a skating party at the indoor rink. Later in the year, members participated in a "Big Nine" playday, besides attending smaller playdays held on occasional Saturdays.

Tumbling club, also meeting on Thursdays, aimed to provide its members with an opportunity to become familiar and adept on the gymnastic equipment. In the beginning of the year, the group concentrated on a program of free exercise, which meant that the tumblers used only mats and such other simple implements as bamboo sticks to practice with. From these, the group graduated to the use of all of the equipment such as the rings, parallel bars and trampoline. The officers were Lynn Eddy and Cathy Wyatt; co-presidents; Joy DeRosier, secretary; Barb Lund, treasurer and Martha Rankin; publicity chairman.

Band, choir entertain public

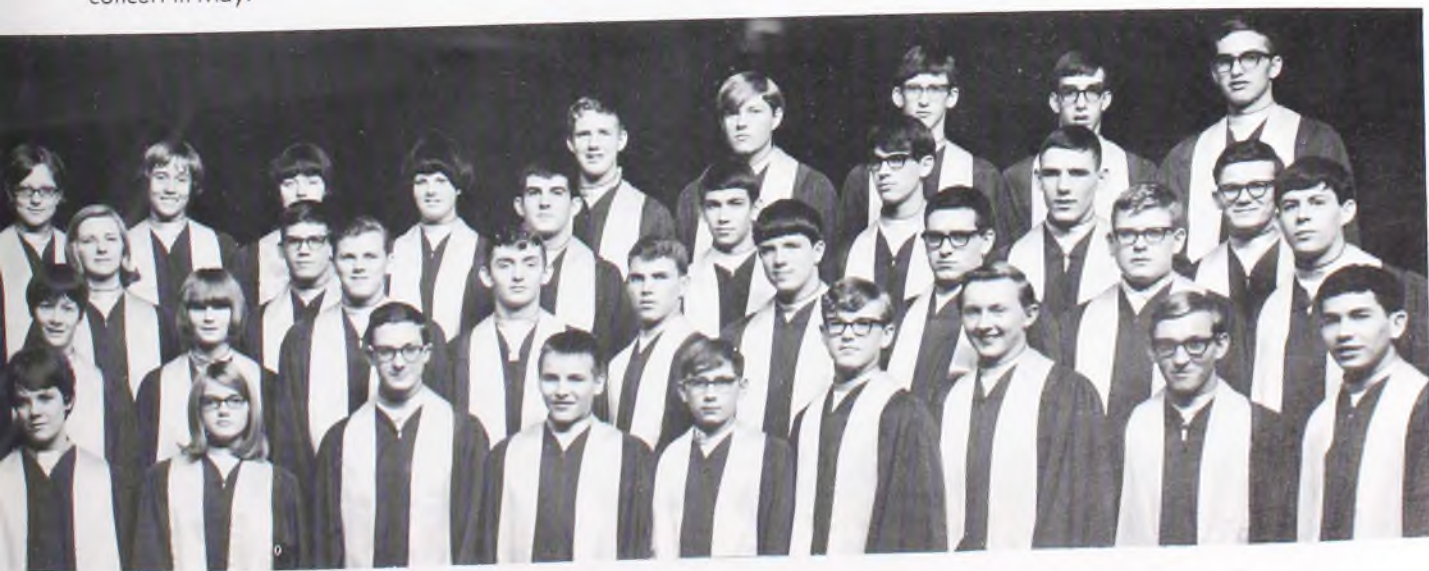

THE Mankato high school choir, under the direction of Melvin Knutson, began its year by singing at the Minnesota State Fair Sept. 6. Other appearances included a program on KEYC, concerts for Women's Music club, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, a public Christmas concert and a Christmas concert for the student body. They also sang at the Big Nine music festival at Northfield, the annual Spring Concert and commencement.

One member of the choir, Roger Kammerdiener, was chosen to sing in the 1965-66 All-State choir.

Robert Northenscald led the band through the year. Highlights were band day at the University of Minnesota, a pop concert in February, playing at a Gopher basketball game and a Spring concert in May.

Yell club adds pep to pooped cheers

THE Yell club undoubtedly had the largest number of members of any existing club in Mankato high school. Its rosters for this year showed a recorded membership of a little over 50 per cent of the student body.

Members of Yell club had the responsibility of electing Yannigan cheerleaders in the fall, to lead cheers at the "B" games, and choosing, in the spring, the varsity cheerleaders for next year. All pep assemblies through the year were arranged and conducted by the Yell club. In addition, this group arranged bus transportation for those students who wished to attend out-of-town games and meets and to lend rooting support to the Scarlet teams.

However, probably the largest function attended by the Yell club was the annual Homecoming. Committees that handled the selling of buttons and the many preparations essential to the 1965 coronation festivities and the dance that followed were composed of members of the Yell club.

Boys show talent in SML

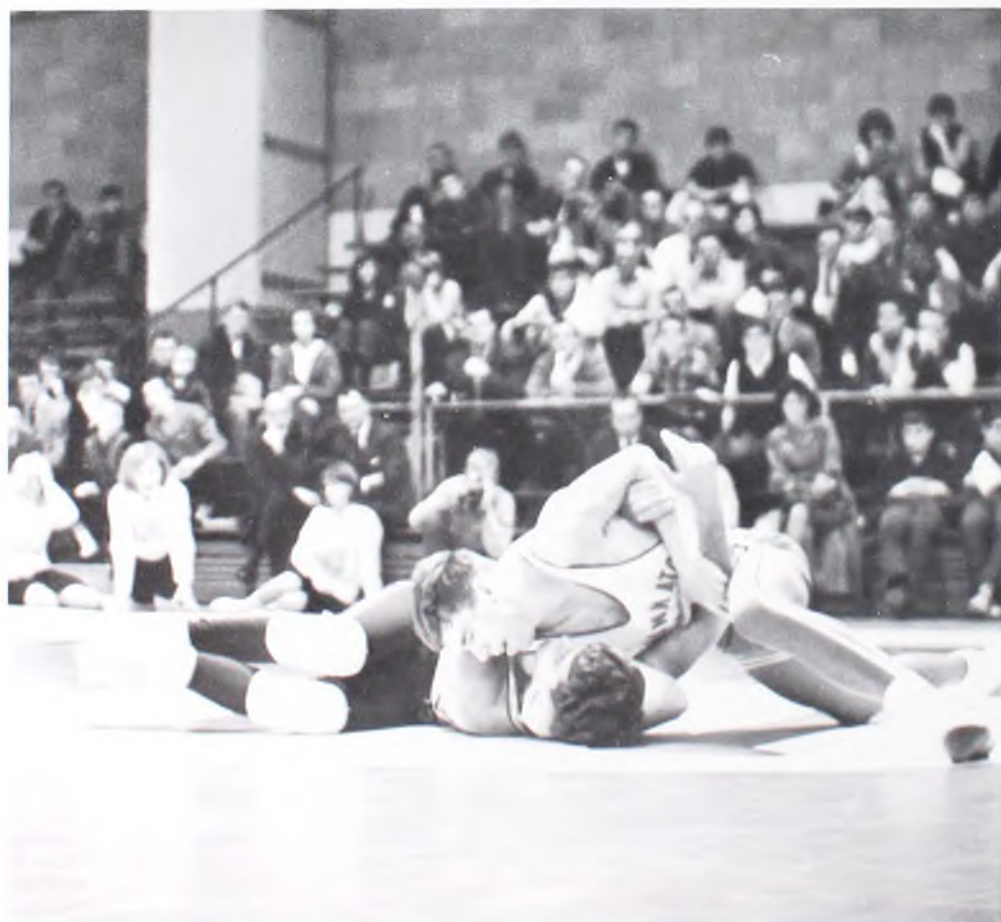

THE Saturday Morning League is a basketball conference with membership open to all boys attending Mankato high and not on the Yannigan or Varsity squads. Each of the nine teams, the Fiendish Things, the Benchies, the Schmaltz, the 409ers, the Jokers, the Barons, the Little Boys, the Teddy Bears, and the Bearcats, competed regularly Saturday mornings from November through February and during Christmas vacation.

The teams, in playing their 16 games, followed the same regulations and rules as those used when playing varsity basketball. At the end of the season the teams' best players were chosen to play in the All-Star in February.

SML was sponsored by the Safety and Recreation Department, with Ed Johnson serving as co-ordinator.

Gridders stop St. Cloud's win streak

THE Scarlet footballers were up, then down as the 1965 season drew to close. After winning its first three games, the team was held scoreless by opponents for 18 consecutive quarters before finally breaking the spell by tying Red Wing 14-14 in a hard-fought contest.

Although hampered by a lack of experience, the Scarlets were ably led by co-captains Bob Hoffman and Larry Kudrle. Only 13 seniors participated in workouts which included only 33 varsity members. Seniors playing under head coach Don Miller, backfield coach Bill Mickelson, and new coach Dick Rohloff, included Bob Bigelow, Bob Hoffman, Larry Kudrle, Steve Anderson, Lee Spelbrink, DuWayne Oney, Don Olsen, Lowell Willock, Denny Perkins, Bruce Holmgren, Scott Anderson, Paul Nelson and Bob Campbell. Scouting duties were carried out by B squad coach Cletus Zitzmann and Dick Rohloff.

Although they had a losing season with three wins, five losses and a tie, the Scarlets provided fans with many thrilling moments. After an opening game win over Northfield, the Scarlets beat St. Cloud Tech, 9-6 and ended that team's 26-game winning streak. An electrifying three touchdowns in three minutes provided fans with another big thrill in the Faribault game.

Key words of the 1965 cross country squad were "push yourself" and "give 100 per cent." With these words in mind the runners produced, and the season was one of the best at Mankato high school.

At the outset, although not expected to be a major power, the Scarlets held their own throughout the season. Late season improvement resulted in winning both the District and Regional and placing ninth in the state meet at the University of Minnesota golf course.

The 1965 season marked the first time Southview Country club was used for the home course. A large increase in fan support urged the Scarlets on.

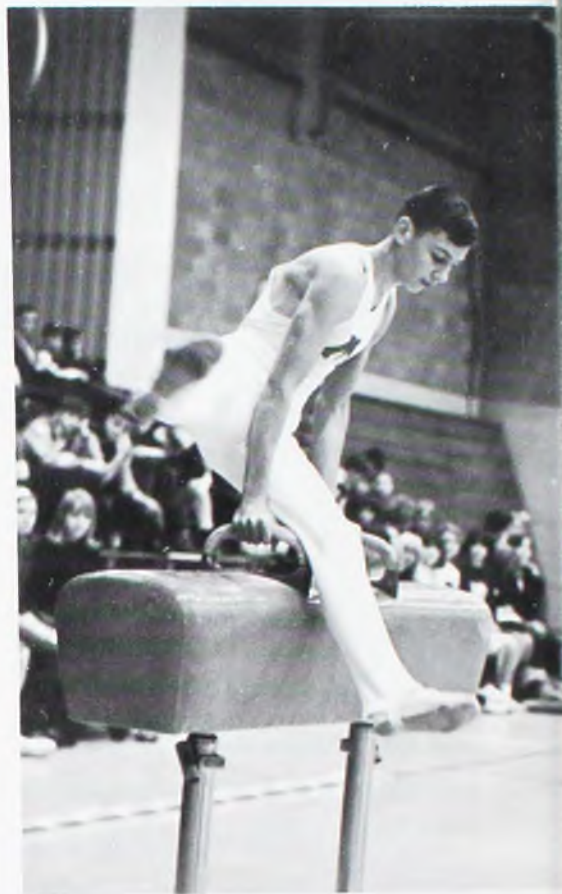

Coach Len Tritsch and assistant coach William Schimmel urged the Mankato runners to a third place in the annual Big Nine conference meet. Kris Berg, senior, reigned over the 1965 Mankato Invitational as the Scarlets took fourth among nine teams.

Individual effort was shown by Tom Lund's record-breaking District and Regional runs and his sixth place in the state meet.

TOM SCHINDLE LEAPS to continue in the relay while Jerry Elias touches at the end of his stint.

CATCHING THEIR BREATH after a tough race are swimming lettermen Scott Shaw and Jerry Elias.

A greatly-improved Mankato high school swimming team took to the pool for the 1965-66 season. This was the third year of swimming at MHS, and Dick Rohloff was the third coach. Forty boys reported at the beginning of the season and few had experience. The team improved, however, and beat Shattuck for one of the highlights of the season. Outstanding performers for the Scarlets were Larry Engelsrud, John Tingley, and Tom Schindle. Mr. Rohloff cited Scott Shaw as the most improved swimmer and as having outstanding potential.

STRETCHING INTO HIS dive is varsity diver Brent Hugdahl.

A lack of experience hampered the 1965-66 basketball team. Only two seniors, Bob Nelsen and Bob Hoffman, saw much action as juniors. However, the Scarlets, led by leading scorers Nelsen and Hoffman, had by no means a dismal season. One of the most satisfying games, according to coach Gordy Hakes, was with Northfield, a team rated as a contender for the Big Nine conference championship. A characteristic of this year's team was even scoring by all starters throughout the season. Eight seniors played their last conference basketball this year. They were co-captains Bob Bigelow and Bob Nelsen, Bob Hoffman, Terry Ness, Larry Kudrle, Scott Anderson, Darrel Mullerleile and Bill Morris.

A winter sports activity in its second year at Mankato high school was weight training, coached by Len Tritsch. The sport was intended for boys who were not competing in a winter sport and wanted to get in shape for spring sports. Boys who just wanted to get into good condition for non-competitive reasons were also welcome to engage in weight-lifting activities.

COACH GORDY HAKES gives the Scarlet netmen a few tips before they resume play.

A DRIBBLE TO the corner and a high, arching jumpshot proved a common point-getter for Bob Bigelow this year.

It was definitely a building year for the Mankato high wrestling team in 1965-66. Coach Luverne Klar had only three returning lettermen, while over half of his A and B squads were made up of sophomores. The inexperience of the team was the result of the graduation of 13 seniors the preceding year. At the beginning of the season there was a limited number of seniors and juniors but the wrestling enrollment in the junior highs increased.

The most satisfying meet, according to Mr. Klar, was the St. James dual. The Scarlets lost by two points, but St. James was rated highly in the state.

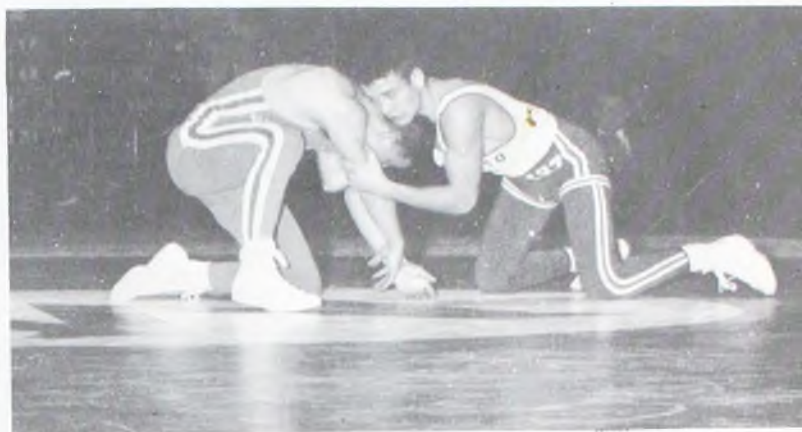

Co-captains Gary Rudenick and Barry Bertrand maintained undefeated records to stand with the best ever at Mankato high school.

Two other seniors, Doug Roy and Dale Stolt, had only seven dual meet losses between them.

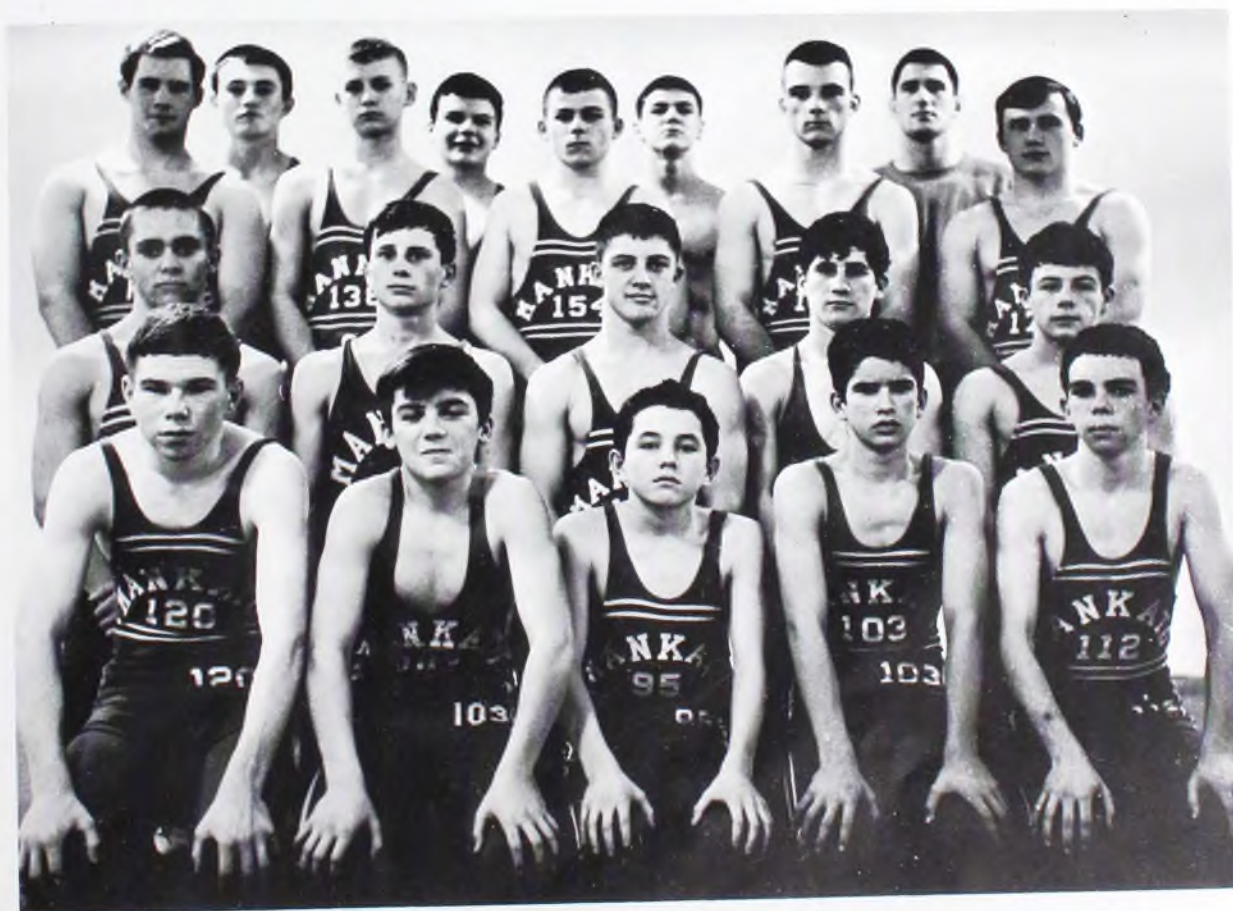

The 1965-66 Big Nine conference race was won by Albert Lea while Mankato was tied for seventh place.

M-Club exemplifies unity of all sports

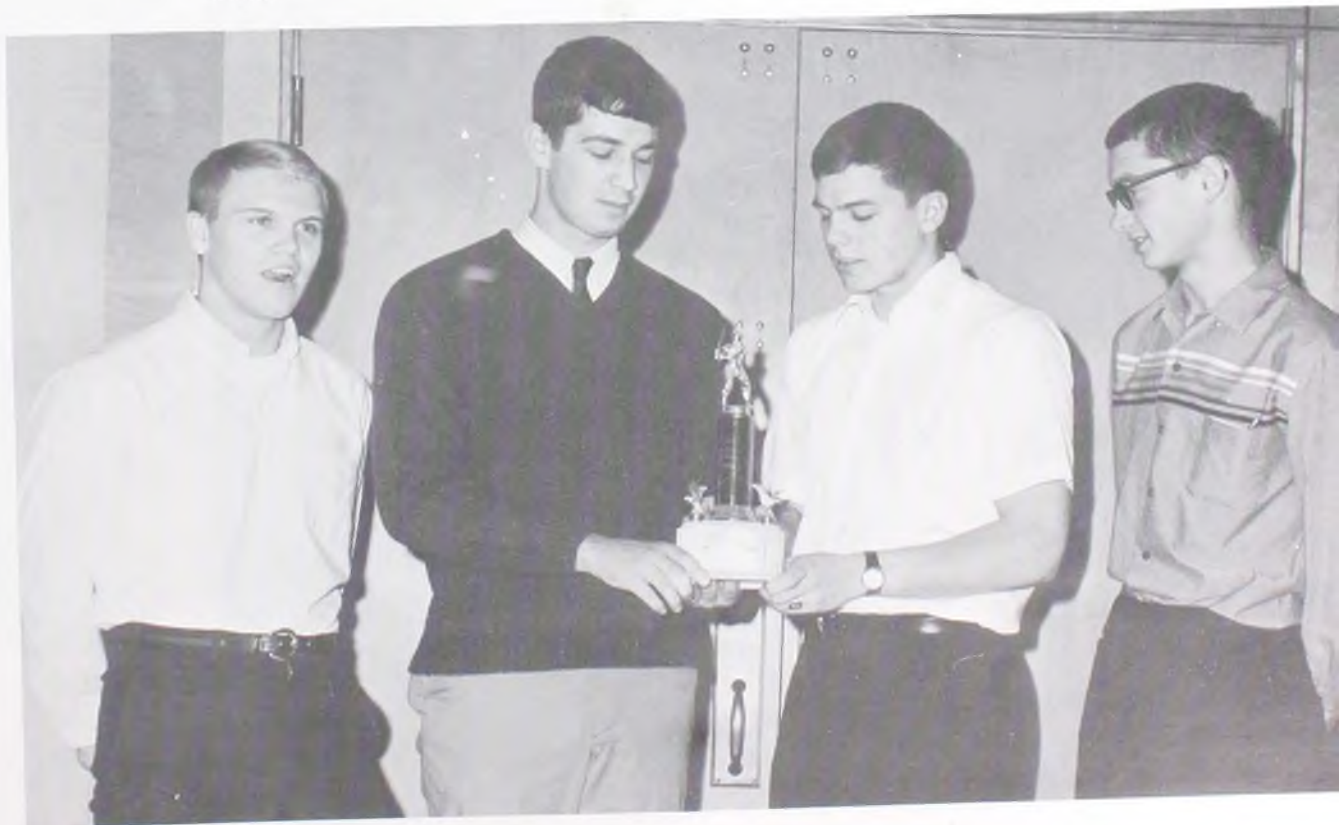

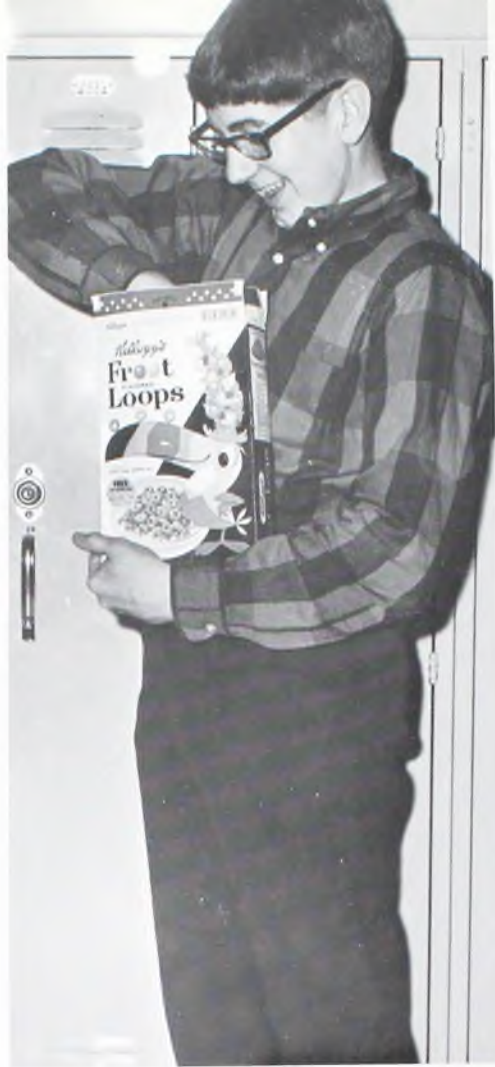

Work, work, work. That's what goes into cheerleading, and the Mankato high cheerleaders did just that. Not only did they go through the stress and strain of numerous sporting events but they also made countless signs in bright red letters to urge Kato athletes to do better. This year's cheerleaders were characterized by a vitality that kept spirit up even if the teams were down.

M club was advised again this year by head basketball coach Gordon Hakes. Each boy who earned a varsity letter award was automatically a member of the club.

CLASSES

John Ellis, Debby Manecke head class of '66

REFLECTING on the past three years spent at MHS, seniors can recall many unforgettable events.

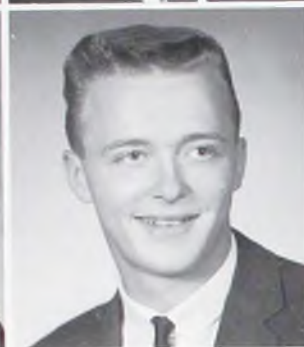

Entering as the largest class in school history, many changes had to be made to accommodate the oversized student body.

As juniors, the class revived the junior-senior banquet. Prom was moved to the Kato ballroom in order to provide enough room for the dancers. After seeing a spring flood that gave them an extra long spring vacation, the class looked anxiously ahead to the final year of high school.

Sliding through Snow Week by combining their efforts, seniors gained 100 points in the snow sculpture competition by the construction of a 20-foot high teddy bear, resembling the school's mascot, and by selling the most tickets to the All-American basketball game. In the spring the senior class produced its play, "Harvey," which featured an imaginary rabbit. Seniors were kept busy during most of the year with reading Shakespeare, doing author studies, working after school and participating in extra-curricular activities. Wanting to make this a truly unique class, traditional gray caps and gowns were changed to an "off" scarlet for the "in" seniors.

NOW a veteran of MHS, the junior class found this year filled with many new responsibilities. Pooling its talents, the class managed to produce an 18-skit play, 'Best of Broadway'. Meanwhile, junior girls displayed their courage as they paraded through the halls in the latest garb, the granny dress.

Absences ran high the week term papers were due, while bleary-eyed juniors typed 'til the wee hours of the morning.

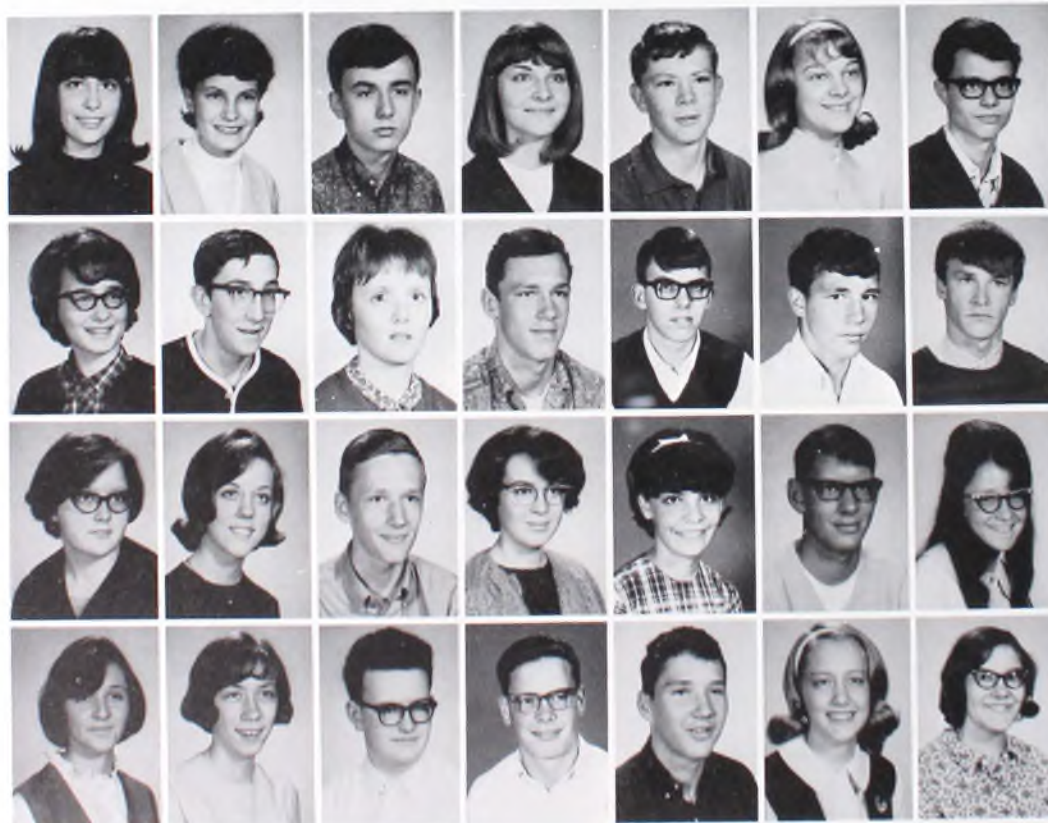

As spring approached, juniors were busy snipping and pasting away, hurrying to complete their prom theme, hoping to make it the most memorable one.

With two years down and one to go, juniors looked forward to a great summer and their upcoming senior year.

TAKING TIME OFF from their many responsibilities, the junior class officers, Nancy Wornson, president Jim Fredrickson, Karen Northenscald and Elaine Tasch, enjoy the first snowfall.

Steiner proposes 'fresh' ideas

THE new addition to MHS swept in with the "Total Look," bringing the total enrollment to 1,260. These enthusiastic creatures known as sophomores were united from three junior highs to comprise the class of '68.

They soon became accustomed to the many aspects of senior high life. Sophomores were faced with a seemingly endless list of extra-curricular activities from JCL to Orchesis. They obviously adjusted to these, for a sophomore home room had the winning Homecoming float.

Sophomore girls were introduced to the ever-popular, form-fitting, tank suits as swimming became a required part of physical education.

Dissecting frogs, worms and crayfish provided variety for those taking biology. "Silas Marner" and "Huckleberry Finn" were required reading in sophomore English.

After worrying all summer about high school life, sophomores found it was a lot more fun than work.

In Memoriam

No man is an Island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the Continent, a part of the main; . . . any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in Mankind.
